Strife Torn India Heralds Dawn of Real Peace

'GREAT SOUL' OF INDIA IN PACT WITH BRITAIN

GANDHI IN TRUCE ENDING POLITICAL STRUGGLE THAT SPREAD TURMOIL

MOMENTOUS PEACE AGREEMENT AFFECTS 300,000,000 PEOPLE OF INDIA

New Delhi, India, March 4—(U.P.)—The "Great Soul" of India, the Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, a diminutive brown man clad in a homespun loin cloth, reached an agreement with the British government before dawn today for a truce ending the political struggle that spread turmoil among 300,000,000 people in India.

The terms of the agreement negotiated by Gandhi, the Viceroy Lord Irwin, and hte viceroy's financial officer, Sir George Schuster, was signed at the Viceregal palace at 6 p. m. today. The working committee of the All-India congress met this morning to approve the accord.

The momentous peace agreement was reached just two weeks after Gandhi and the viceroy held their first conversations here. The negotiations were interrupted several times by marked divergencies, but during the last few days both sides showed a willingness to make concessions which made a settlement possible.

The truce was regarded as the climax of the campaign waged by Gandhi since 1909 when, as a young barrister, he went to London and laid his views on India's political aspirations before the liberal government of the day.

Since that time the Mahatma has come to be revered as a saint by millions of Indians. The inauguration of his civil disobedience campaign eleven months ago provoked one of the most remarkable demonstrations in Indian history.

It was understood that the government agreed to withdraw its punitive police forces and that Gandhi agreed to the British insistence upon safeguards for the proposed new Indian constitution. The safeguards proposed at the Indian round table conference in London included the right of the crown's representative to retain control over certain phases of India's foreign relations, defense and finances.

The Hindu-Moslem question remains to be settled, and Gandhi will give it his attention as soon as a formal truce with the British government is completed. Religious differences between Hindus and Moslems have caused innumerable riots in India, and their political differences constitute a serious difficulty on the path of an Indian government.

State's Only Woman Senator Congratulated

St. Paul, March 4—(U.P.)—Minnesota's only woman state senator today received the congratulations of her colleagues on talking veteran members into supporting her.

Mrs. Laura E. Naplin, Thief River Falls, lead the battle for passage of a bill requiring railroad companies to obtain the consent of the state railroad and warehouse commission before moving or abandoning trackage. Against her were Senators H. L. Morin, C. E. Adams and E. R. Ribenack, all of Duluth.

Although seven members of the senate voted for delay, which Mrs. Naplin opposed, only Senator Morin opposed her when the measure came up for final passage. The bill already has passed the house.

2 Dead, 37 are Paralyzed Drinking Ginger Extract

Los Angeles, March 4.—(U.P.)—Two soldiers, inmates of the national home for disabled war veterans, were dead today, and 37 others were paralyzed from drinking Jamaica ginger extract.

Col. J. A. Mattison, in charge of the home, said that the men who died had other ailments, but that "without question the drinking of poisonous Jamaica ginger had hastened their deaths."

ONTARIO GETS NEWS OF RICH GOLD STRIKE

Fort William, Ont., March 4.—(U.P.)—News of a rich gold ore strike in the Moss mine, south of Kashabowie, was reported today to Norman M. Paterson, president of the Thunder Bay Chamber of Mines.

News of the strike was sent by J. G. Harkness, who operates the Moss mine. The ore was found 400 feet down on the lowest level of the workings.

The spectacular ore occurred in the last 25 feet which had been run, the tellurides being associated with visible gold. Some of the ore was described as having the suggestion of nuggets. They may average as high as several hundred dollars a ton.

Colorful Story of Mrs. Green; Red Looked Yellow to Her

Evanston, Ill., March 4.—(U.P.)—The Monday became blue for Mrs. Leon Green, 43, when she was arraigned before Police Judge Harry Porter on a charge of not stopping for a red traffic light.

Mrs. Green explained.

Her baby, she said, was too white, so she gave it violet ray treatments in the hope of making it brown, but the rays hurt her eyes and she had to wear black glasses, which made the red light look yellow.

Judge Porter considered the "colorful" story of Mrs. Green and fined her "one greenback."

DRAMATIC TRIAL SHIFTS NOW TO A LITTLE CEMETERY

VIRGIL KIRKLAND FACES ELECTRIC CHAIR IF HE IS CONVICTED

BODY OF ATTACKED GIRL TO BE EXHUMED TO SUBSTANTIATE DEATH CAUSE

Valpariso, Ind., March 4—(UP)—The dramatic trial of a youthful athlete on charges of killing his sweetheart of a party shifted today to a little cemetery where three months ago Arlene Draves was buried.

Virgil Kirkland, the 20-year-old defendant who faces the electric chair if convicted, did not accompany the expedition which set out at dawn through snow and slush to dig up the body of the girl he was charged with killing by attack.

Exhumation of Miss Draves' body was demanded by Kirkland's attorneys in an effort to impeach the evidence of Dr. J. B. Burcham, who performed an autopsy on the 18-year-old girl's body and testified her death was due principally to exposure and attacks by Kirkland and four other youths.

Carolyn Draves, sister of the dead girl, collapsed in the court room when the exhumation was ordered. Another sister, Mrs. Murrell E. Clemens, first member of the family to learn last Nov. 30 that Arlene was dead, collapsed later on the court house lawn.

Arlene's father, Charles, fought the order at first, rebelling at the idea of his child's body again being mutilated by surgical knives, but later he consented and said he would accompany the party of doctors, lawyers and newspapermen to the cemetery at Reynlods today.

Attorney Barratt O'Hara of the defense staff based his demand for exhumation upon a claim that Dr. Burcham had not been thorough in his autopsy and had not been qualified to testify as an expert.

The defense contention has been that Miss Draves died of brain concussion caused by an accidental fall at the liquor party.

An effort to prove that poison liquor also was a contributing cause failed yesterday when Dr. H. E. Seipel, called by the defense testified he had examined the contents of Arlene's stomach and had not found sufficient poison to cause death.

Governor La Follette Pardons Rickaby

Madison, Wis., March 4.—(U.P.)—Gov. Phillip F. La Follette announced today that he had pardoned Robert A. Rickaby, Waupaca, the only person still serving a sentence for violation of the state prohibition law which was repealed in 1929.

Rickaby was sentenced to serve from two to three years, and the pardon came after he had completed two years and nine months of the maximum term.

Hoover Signs Bill Taxing Colored Oleomargarine

Washington, March 4.—(U.P.)—President Hoover today signed the bill levying a tax of 10 cents a pound on all colored oleomargarine, whether its color is natural or artificial. The measure was passed in the last days of congress. Western dairy interests claim the law will mean millions of dollars to that industry.

HUSBAND PREFERRED KISSING THE DOG; WIFE GETS DIVORCE

St. Louis, March 4.—(U.P.)—Testimony her husband wouldn't kiss her but that he frequently kissed the dog gained a divorce for Mrs. Josephine Bernstein.

"It's a doggone shame," the judge said in ruling Mrs. Bernstein had been treated cruelly.

Veterans Hospitalization Bill is Passed an Hour Before Congress Adjourns Today

$25,877,000 BILL SIGNED BY HOOVER NEAR NOON HOUR

LAST SESSION OF 71ST CONGRESS BEGAN DEC. 1, ENDED AT NOON TODAY

REVIEW GIVEN OF IMPORTANT LEGISLATION WHICH WAS PASSED

By LYLE C. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 4.—The seventy-first congress is dead. The clocks in the house and senate registered the hour of noon as two veteran gavels smartly sounded taps.

Over in the president's office, occupied one day out of every 365, Mr Hoover paused, pen in mid-air, and leaned back in his official chair. Page boys stopped in their tracks.

The senate adjourned promptly at noon. The house, following its usual custom, set back its clocks to permit members to complete their final speeches, and adjourned shortly after.

Shortly before 11:30 A. M. Mr. Hoover signed the $25,877,000 veterans hospitalization bill which narrowly escaped death at this session and was passed only an hour before adjournment.

For the last three hours of the senate session Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, ruled in effect as dictator. He had the floor when the senate recessed early this morning, and at 9 A. M. resumed his filibuster in behalf of oil legislation, refusing to yield for anything but action on a house resolution appropriating $5,000,000 to begin veterans' hospital construction.

This was pursuant to final passage of the $20,000,000 hospitalization bill this morning, after what had appeared to be a hopeless conference deadlock.

The house disposed of all important legislation and then gave itself over to the usual fraternal speech making and song singing attendant on adjournment. The house dies, and each two years a wake is held by the departing members.

The august senate, being a continuing body, indulged in no such festivities. It continued solemn and pretentious to the end.

The president at his marble-topped table signed bills right up to the end.

Thus ended a congress which has wrangled and bickered through two long years, but has in the end passed virtually all important legislation brought before it.

One of the last major acts of the senate was to uphold President Hoover's veto of the Norris Muscle Shoals bill. The vote was 34 to sustain the veto and 49 to override it, failing the two-thirds necessary to overcome the White House.

"This action, with the completion of the last appropriation bill, completed the program necessary to avoid an extra session, to which not only President Hoover but the majority of both republicans and democrats in both houses were opposed.

In a plea to the senate to disregard the presidential veto of the Muscle Shoals bill, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, declared Mr. Hoover in rejecting government ownership had provided a "jubilee" for the power interests. Senator Black, democrat, of Alabama, said the veto message was misleading. But little defense of the president was necessary as administration leaders were sure of sufficient votes.

Disposition of the perennial Muscle Shoals problem thus was passed on to future congresses. In vetoing the bill earlier in the day, the president also disclosed his position on the power issue as he went beyond the merits of the bill to take a strong stand against government ownership or operation of any competitive business.

Senator Glenn, republican, Illinois, was the only senator to speak in support of the veto last night. He denied Mr. Hoover had violated his campaign promises and praised his courage for vetoing the bill.

Sixteen republicans and one farmer-laborite joined with the 32 democrats in voting to override the veto. Three democrats were aligned with 31 republicans in support of the president.

Washington, March 4.—The last session of the 71st congress, which began December 1 and ended at noon today counted these major accomplishments.

1. Passed nine regular appropriation bills and two emergency deficiency appropriation bills providing for $3,648,136,860 to meet government expenses.
2. Appropriated $110,000,000 for emergency construction to aid employment.
3. Voted $65,000,000 for drought relief.
4. Increased the loan rate on world

400 BILLS SENT TO PRES. HOOVER IN 36 HOURS

Washington, March 4.—(U.P.)—President Hoover has found it a physical impossibility to act on the nearly 400 bills sent to him by congress within the last 36 hours, it was announced at the White House today.

Mr. Hoover has obtained a ruling from Attorney General Mitchell authorizing him to abandon the custom requiring him to sign all bills before congress adjourns, it was said.

$60,000 FIRE AT NEW YORK MILLS

TOTALLY DESTROYS CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY'S STORE IN VILLAGE

New York Mills, Minn., March 4.—(U.P.)—Fire which caused a $60,000 loss totally destroyed the New York Mills Co-operative Company's store today and partially burned the adjoining Manson hardware store.

The fire was believed to have been caused by an overheated chimney in the large brick store of the Co-operative Company. The flames first were discovered around the chimney.

Flames burned through the structure and destroyed its contents. The adjoining hardware store caught fire and was partly destroyed with a heavy loss of hardware supplies.

Moorhead, Minn., March 4.—(U.P.)—Farmers of the Red River valley today were reported planting their spring wheat.

NOTICE OF CONTEST AGAINST SCHALL FILED IN SENATE

APPEARS UNDER SIGNATURE OF HOIDALE, DEFEATED DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

SCHALL CLAIMS CONTEST WAS MADE IN SPITE OVER JUDGESHIP CONTROVERSY

Washington, March 4—(UP)—A notice of contest against the election of Thomas D. Schall, Minnesota's blind senator, was on file in the senate today under the signature of Einar Hoidale, democratic nominee who was defeated by Schall in the last November's election.

The communication was presented in the senate without comment by Senator Walsh of Montana. The presentation came a short time after Schall made a statement indicating his belief that Attorney General W. D. Mitchell had a part in the contest.

In a letter accompanying the contest, N. E. Pardee, Minneapolis attorney, explained that the contest was filed at this time because he understood that if it was filed before Schall is sworn in for his next term the election could be avaoided by a majority vote of the senate.

If the contest were filed after Schall takes the oath of office, Pardee said he understood it would require a two-thirds vote to unseat him.

In his statement concerning the contest Schall said:

"The so-called contest is made in spite and grows out of any campaign for appointment of a federal judge

ARLENE DRAVES' SISTER ON STAND

A slight girl of serious mien, Elsie Draves, sister of Arlene Draves, appeared as a surprise witness in the trial of Virgil Kirkland, who is accused of the alleged murder of Arlene at a gin-drenched party of young people at Gary, Ind., November 30. Elsie was introduced by the prosecution to prove that Arlene did not invite the treatment by the unconventional mode of her attire.

NEW RECORD FOR DELAYED 'CHUTE JUMPS

Los Angeles, March 4.—(U.P.)—A new world's record for delayed parachute jumps was set here Sunday by E. S. Manning, 22, it was revealed today after calibration of a small barograph which had been strapped to his back during the drop.

Manning leaped from an airplane at an altitude of 16,665 feet and fell 15,265 feet before he pulled the cords on his two parachutes. The previous record was 9,601 feet.

Manning fell the distance in 44 seconds, or at a rate of about 240 miles an hour.

DAUGHTER OF SLAIN VIVIAN GORDON COMMITS SUICIDE

BENETA BISCHOFF, 16, KILLS SELF AT HOME OF FATHER AND STEPMOTHER

BECAME HYSTERICAL AT DEATH OF MOTHER WHO YEARS AGO PASSED OUT OF HER LIFE

New York, March 4—(U.P.)—The tragedy of Vivian Gordon, murdered witness in the Seabury investigation, whose death may lead to greater scandals in New York police and underworld connections than any case in the last 20 years, had produced today another and greater tragedy.

Benita Bischoff, Miss Gordon's 16-year old daughter by her marriage to John E. C. Bischoff, committed suicide in the home of her father and stepmother in Audubon, N. J., yesterday, because "she could not face the world any longer."

The shame which the young girl felt at being known as the daughter of a woman who allegedly trafficked in "party girls" and other underworld rackets, preyed on her mind.

She had become hysterical last Thursday when the death of her mother, who had long since passed out of her life, became known. She refused to attend high school, where she was a freshman.

Yesterday, while her father was testifying before the Bronx grand jury and her step-mother was at her work in a Philadelphia tea room, Benita wrote in her diary: "I can't face the world any longer. I'm going to end it all."

She went to the kitchen, closed the doors and windows, stuffing the cracks, and turning on the gas, lay down on the floor. When her stepmother returned she was unconscious. She died in a hospital.

Eight years ago Beneta's mother was sent to Bedford reformatory on a vice charge, which Miss Gordon declared was framed by Andrew J. McLaughlin, vice squad patrolman, and Bischoff, her estranged husband.

After Miss Gordon was released, she resolved to try to clear herself in the eyes of her daughter. She gathered evidence in an attempt to prove that the vice charge on which she was convicted was false.

A few weeks before her death she promised to testify before the investigation as soon as her evidence was complete.

But she never testified. Last Thursday her body was found in Van Courtlandt park. She had been strangled and thrown from an automobile.

$5,000 APPROPRIATION FOR MAINTENANCE OF LINDBERGH PARK

St. Paul, March 4.—(U.P.)—Legislators said today that the appropriation bill for maintenance of Lindbergh park near Little Falls probably will carry $5,000 for the next two years when it is finally passed.

Identical bills, proposing $10,000 appropriations, originally were introduced in the house and senate. The bill introduced in the senate has been passed with the amount reduced to $5,000.

The house parks committee has favorably reported the measure calling for $10,000. The bill has been sent to the house appropriations committee where it is expected to be cut to $5,000.

Final passage by both houses of an appropriation measure is assured, according to sponsors of the proposal.

Beer and Ale to Keep Undergrads in Town Over Week-end

New Haven, Conn., March 4.—(U.P.)—The Yale Daily News today expressed itself editorially as "in hearty accord" with the belief that beer and ale saloons should be established in New Haven to keep the undergraduates in town over the week-end.

H. H. FLOWERS, RETIRED SECRETARY, IS HEAVILY SCORED

POSSIBILITY OF PROSECUTION FOR MANAGEMENT OF DEPARTMENT HINTED

IRREGULARITIES CHARGED IN CONNECTION WITH COMMISSIONS ON INSURANCE

St. Paul, Minn., March 4.—(U.P.)—H. H. Flowers, retired secretary of the rural credits department, today was accused of a "gross misdemeanor" according to a letter submitted to Michael Kinkead, Ramsey county attorney, by C. F. Gaarenstroom, present rural credits secretary who investigated Flowers' record.

Possibility of prosecution against Flowers for his management of the state department was hinted in the letter which charged Flowers had allowed irregularities in connection with commissions on insurance premiums paid by the state.

Kinkead was told that "the results of the investigation will be furnished to you so that you may properly determine if prosecution is justified."

The amount of the commissions for the period under investigation by the appointee of Governor Floyd B. Olson was $47,077.25, the letter said.

"Investigation by the commissioner of banks reveals that various ledger sheets which would disclose the account of H. H. Flowers and Frank H. Flowers with the First State Bank of Cleveland have been destroyed but the state officers mentioned have in their possession cancelled checks issued by the various insurance agencies involved in these transactions," the letter said.

The report said that Flowers agreed with William Walsh, Minneapolis, then an officer of the Twin City Fire Insurance Company of Minneapolis, for the insuring of the property owned by the state and under the control of the rural credits department.

Twenty-five per cent of the premiums paid on the state's insurance was to be distributed as follows, according to the report:

Five per cent to the Schanke Insurance Agency, Minneapolis.

Twenty per cent to the First State Bank of Cleveland, Ohio. This was at the direction of Flowers, who is an officer and stockholder in the First State Bank of Cleveland.

The letter said Flowers assured Walsh that the transaction was entirely legal.

When Walsh left the Twin City Fire Insurance Company for the firm of Walsh-Herbert-Lawson in 1928, another agreement was made continuing the same agreement with the new concern, the letter said.

Later the 20 per cent of the premiums was directed to be paid to his son, Frank H. Flowers.

Section 10305 of the general statutes of Minnesota for 1927, which was cited in the letter, provides that any public officer authorized to make any contracts in his official capacity who shall voluntarily become interested individually in such contract shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

Meanwhile, the state house late on Tuesday gave its approval to proposed investigations into the state highway department and state department of education. The vote in favor of the investigations was unanimous.

A resolution calling for the highway department inquiry said that it was being started "to provide full information about the activities of the department, which spends large sums of money."

The senate already has passed the resolution for an investigation of the department of education. The bill as passed by the house was considerably revised to remove statements which the legislators regarded to be "too strong."

Another move which caused discussion in the legislature was the announcement of Senator A. J. Rockne, known as "the watchdog of the state treasury," that he will oppose proposals for increases in salaries of state employes.

Rockne, who is chairman of the senate finance committee, said he will attempt to keep the state salary budget below the $42,254,821 which was appropriated in 1929. The commission of administration and finance has approved appropriations totalling $44,474,986.

"You may as well take the words 'salary increase' out of your vocabulary," Rockne informed A. J. Pearlove of the commission when Pearlove suggested that the $2,400 annual salary of the assistant purchasing commissioner be increased to $3,600.

"A complete program of economy is warranted by the state's present financial condition and heavy burden of taxation. As far as I am concerned there will be no salary increases, and I believe other members of the finance committee have similar views."

Former Governor Van Sant Visits Governor Olson

St. Paul, March 4.—(U.P.)—Former Gov. Samuel R. Van Sant, Minneapolis, today visited Gov. Floyd B. Olson, for an informal conference.

400 BILLS SENT TO PRES. HOOVER IN 36 HOURS

Washington, March 4.—(U.P.)—President Hoover has found it a physical impossibility to act on the nearly 400 bills sent to him by congress within the last 36 hours, it was announced at the White House today.

Mr. Hoover has obtained a ruling from Attorney General Mitchell authorizing him to abandon the custom requiring him to sign all bills before congress adjourns, it was said.

$60,000 FIRE AT NEW YORK MILLS

TOTALLY DESTROYS CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY'S STORE IN VILLAGE

New York Mills, Minn., March 4.—(U.P.)—Fire which caused a $60,000 loss totally destroyed the New York Mills Co-operative Company's store today and partially burned the adjoining Manson hardware store.

The fire was believed to have been caused by an overheated chimney in the large brick store of the Co-operative Company. The flames first were discovered around the chimney.

Flames burned through the structure and destroyed its contents. The adjoining hardware store caught fire and was partly destroyed with a heavy loss of hardware supplies.

Moorhead, Minn., March 4.—(U.P.)—Farmers of the Red River valley today were reported planting their spring wheat.

NOTICE OF CONTEST AGAINST SCHALL FILED IN SENATE

APPEARS UNDER SIGNATURE OF HOIDALE, DEFEATED DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

SCHALL CLAIMS CONTEST WAS MADE IN SPITE OVER JUDGESHIP CONTROVERSY

Washington, March 4—(UP)—A notice of contest against the election of Thomas D. Schall, Minnesota's blind senator, was on file in the senate today under the signature of Einar Hoidale, democratic nominee who was defeated by Schall in the last November's election.

The communication was presented in the senate without comment by Senator Walsh of Montana. The presentation came a short time after Schall made a statement indicating his belief that Attorney General W. D. Mitchell had a part in the contest.

In a letter accompanying the contest, N. E. Pardee, Minneapolis attorney, explained that the contest was filed at this time because he understood that if it was filed before Schall is sworn in for his next term the election could be avaoided by a majority vote of the senate.

If the contest were filed after Schall takes the oath of office, Pardee said he understood it would require a two-thirds vote to unseat him.

In his statement concerning the contest Schall said:

"The so-called contest is made in spite and grows out of any campaign for appointment of a federal judge

ARLENE DRAVES' SISTER ON STAND

A slight girl of serious mien, Elsie Draves, sister of Arlene Draves, appeared as a surprise witness in the trial of Virgil Kirkland, who is accused of the alleged murder of Arlene at a gin-drenched party of young people at Gary, Ind., November 30. Elsie was introduced by the prosecution to prove that Arlene did not invite the treatment by the unconventional mode of her attire.

NEW RECORD FOR DELAYED 'CHUTE JUMPS

Los Angeles, March 4.—(U.P.)—A new world's record for delayed parachute jumps was set here Sunday by E. S. Manning, 22, it was revealed today after calibration of a small barograph which had been strapped to his back during the drop.

Manning leaped from an airplane at an altitude of 16,665 feet and fell 15,265 feet before he pulled the cords on his two parachutes. The previous record was 9,601 feet.

Manning fell the distance in 44 seconds, or at a rate of about 240 miles an hour.

DAUGHTER OF SLAIN VIVIAN GORDON COMMITS SUICIDE

BENETA BISCHOFF, 16, KILLS SELF AT HOME OF FATHER AND STEPMOTHER

BECAME HYSTERICAL AT DEATH OF MOTHER WHO YEARS AGO PASSED OUT OF HER LIFE

New York, March 4—(U.P.)—The tragedy of Vivian Gordon, murdered witness in the Seabury investigation, whose death may lead to greater scandals in New York police and underworld connections than any case in the last 20 years, had produced today another and greater tragedy.

Benita Bischoff, Miss Gordon's 16-year old daughter by her marriage to John E. C. Bischoff, committed suicide in the home of her father and stepmother in Audubon, N. J., yesterday, because "she could not face the world any longer."

The shame which the young girl felt at being known as the daughter of a woman who allegedly trafficked in "party girls" and other underworld rackets, preyed on her mind.

She had become hysterical last Thursday when the death of her mother, who had long since passed out of her life, became known. She refused to attend high school, where she was a freshman.

Yesterday, while her father was testifying before the Bronx grand jury and her step-mother was at her work in a Philadelphia tea room, Benita wrote in her diary: "I can't face the world any longer. I'm going to end it all."

She went to the kitchen, closed the doors and windows, stuffing the cracks, and turning on the gas, lay down on the floor. When her stepmother returned she was unconscious. She died in a hospital.

Eight years ago Beneta's mother was sent to Bedford reformatory on a vice charge, which Miss Gordon declared was framed by Andrew J. McLaughlin, vice squad patrolman, and Bischoff, her estranged husband.

After Miss Gordon was released, she resolved to try to clear herself in the eyes of her daughter. She gathered evidence in an attempt to prove that the vice charge on which she was convicted was false.

A few weeks before her death she promised to testify before the investigation as soon as her evidence was complete.

But she never testified. Last Thursday her body was found in Van Courtlandt park. She had been strangled and thrown from an automobile.

$5,000 APPROPRIATION FOR MAINTENANCE OF LINDBERGH PARK

St. Paul, March 4.—(U.P.)—Legislators said today that the appropriation bill for maintenance of Lindbergh park near Little Falls probably will carry $5,000 for the next two years when it is finally passed.

Identical bills, proposing $10,000 appropriations, originally were introduced in the house and senate. The bill introduced in the senate has been passed with the amount reduced to $5,000.

The house parks committee has favorably reported the measure calling for $10,000. The bill has been sent to the house appropriations committee where it is expected to be cut to $5,000.

Final passage by both houses of an appropriation measure is assured, according to sponsors of the proposal.

Beer and Ale to Keep Undergrads in Town Over Week-end

New Haven, Conn., March 4.—(U.P.)—The Yale Daily News today expressed itself editorially as "in hearty accord" with the belief that beer and ale saloons should be established in New Haven to keep the undergraduates in town over the week-end.

H. H. FLOWERS, RETIRED SECRETARY, IS HEAVILY SCORED

POSSIBILITY OF PROSECUTION FOR MANAGEMENT OF DEPARTMENT HINTED

IRREGULARITIES CHARGED IN CONNECTION WITH COMMISSIONS ON INSURANCE

St. Paul, Minn., March 4.—(U.P.)—H. H. Flowers, retired secretary of the rural credits department, today was accused of a "gross misdemeanor" according to a letter submitted to Michael Kinkead, Ramsey county attorney, by C. F. Gaarenstroom, present rural credits secretary who investigated Flowers' record.

Possibility of prosecution against Flowers for his management of the state department was hinted in the letter which charged Flowers had allowed irregularities in connection with commissions on insurance premiums paid by the state.

Kinkead was told that "the results of the investigation will be furnished to you so that you may properly determine if prosecution is justified."

The amount of the commissions for the period under investigation by the appointee of Governor Floyd B. Olson was $47,077.25, the letter said.

"Investigation by the commissioner of banks reveals that various ledger sheets which would disclose the account of H. H. Flowers and Frank H. Flowers with the First State Bank of Cleveland have been destroyed but the state officers mentioned have in their possession cancelled checks issued by the various insurance agencies involved in these transactions," the letter said.

The report said that Flowers agreed with William Walsh, Minneapolis, then an officer of the Twin City Fire Insurance Company of Minneapolis, for the insuring of the property owned by the state and under the control of the rural credits department.

Twenty-five per cent of the premiums paid on the state's insurance was to be distributed as follows, according to the report:

Five per cent to the Schanke Insurance Agency, Minneapolis.

Twenty per cent to the First State Bank of Cleveland, Ohio. This was at the direction of Flowers, who is an officer and stockholder in the First State Bank of Cleveland.

The letter said Flowers assured Walsh that the transaction was entirely legal.

When Walsh left the Twin City Fire Insurance Company for the firm of Walsh-Herbert-Lawson in 1928, another agreement was made continuing the same agreement with the new concern, the letter said.

Later the 20 per cent of the premiums was directed to be paid to his son, Frank H. Flowers.

Section 10305 of the general statutes of Minnesota for 1927, which was cited in the letter, provides that any public officer authorized to make any contracts in his official capacity who shall voluntarily become interested individually in such contract shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

Meanwhile, the state house late on Tuesday gave its approval to proposed investigations into the state highway department and state department of education. The vote in favor of the investigations was unanimous.

A resolution calling for the highway department inquiry said that it was being started "to provide full information about the activities of the department, which spends large sums of money."

The senate already has passed the resolution for an investigation of the department of education. The bill as passed by the house was considerably revised to remove statements which the legislators regarded to be "too strong."

Another move which caused discussion in the legislature was the announcement of Senator A. J. Rockne, known as "the watchdog of the state treasury," that he will oppose proposals for increases in salaries of state employes.

Rockne, who is chairman of the senate finance committee, said he will attempt to keep the state salary budget below the $42,254,821 which was appropriated in 1929. The commission of administration and finance has approved appropriations totalling $44,474,986.

"You may as well take the words 'salary increase' out of your vocabulary," Rockne informed A. J. Pearlove of the commission when Pearlove suggested that the $2,400 annual salary of the assistant purchasing commissioner be increased to $3,600.

"A complete program of economy is warranted by the state's present financial condition and heavy burden of taxation. As far as I am concerned there will be no salary increases, and I believe other members of the finance committee have similar views."

Gassy Stomachs Made Well

Every person who is troubled with gas in the stomach and bowels should get a package of Baalmann's Gas Tablets and see how quickly they will relieve all distressing symptoms.

Sharp pains in the abdomen or about the heart are often due entirely to gas pressure. Sometimes the circulation is restricted, causing the hands and feet to grow numb. Usually there is much gurgling or rumbling in the bowels. Many sufferers complain of a gnawing feeling in the stomach, extreme nervousness, heartburn, drowsiness after eating, headaches, dizzy spells or labored breathing.

Baalmann's Gas Tablets taken at meal time not only prevent all bad effects from gas, but they invigorate the weak nerves of the stomach and assist in restoring the whole digestive system to proper working order.

Genuine Baalmann's Gas Tablets—in the yellow package—can be obtained at any good drug store. Price $1 everywhere.

Hold Farewell Dinner for James M. Owen

Ten gentlemen employes of the Montgomery Ward store held a farewell dinner for James M. Owen last evening at the home of Milton Bergstrand, 1809 Oak street. Mr. Owen is leaving for Fargo, N. D., to become district manager. He has been manager of the local store since its opening. He was presented with a very nice desk set by the employes. After the dinner cards were enjoyed for the remainder of the evening.

The new manager, L. E. Swanson, was among those present, also Devere Beckley, who left today for Dickinson, N. D., to become manager of the shoe department in a Montgomery Ward store there.

Luther League

The Luther League of the First Evangelical Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Harriet Oberg will entertain. All our young people are urged to attend. All are welcome. The program at this meeting will be different from the regular programs. It will consist of the life story of one who was at one time an infidel and a scoffer, but who by the grace of God became a famous hymn writer and a power for much good. Let us all be there!

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to sincerely thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us during our recent bereavement in the death of our husband and father.

Especially do we thank the members of the G. A. R., the W. R. C., the American Legion, and the Willing Workers of the Evangelical Sunday school for the flowers, also the Rev. Thomas for his words of sympathy.

Gassy Stomachs Made Well

Every person who is troubled with gas in the stomach and bowels should get a package of Baalmann's Gas Tablets and see how quickly they will relieve all distressing symptoms.

Sharp pains in the abdomen or about the heart are often due entirely to gas pressure. Sometimes the circulation is restricted, causing the hands and feet to grow numb. Usually there is much gurgling or rumbling in the bowels. Many sufferers complain of a gnawing feeling in the stomach, extreme nervousness, heartburn, drowsiness after eating, headaches, dizzy spells or labored breathing.

Baalmann's Gas Tablets taken at meal time not only prevent all bad effects from gas, but they invigorate the weak nerves of the stomach and assist in restoring the whole digestive system to proper working order.

Genuine Baalmann's Gas Tablets—in the yellow package—can be obtained at any good drug store. Price $1 everywhere.

SCORES BIG VICTORY OVER RIVALS IN ST. LOUIS TEST

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Himself
Creator of "Believe It or Not"

"Are you smoking the cigarette you like best? Are you SURE? Here's what happened in St. Louis the other day. 1041 smokers sampled the four leading brands, with the names concealed. Then they picked out the one that tasted best.

"Result? It wasn't even close. OLD GOLD, 334; Brand X, 264; Brand Y, 237; Brand Z, 206. I conducted this test and it was fair and square, proving again that OLD GOLDS are made of smoother tobaccos, genuinely easier on your throat."

Good Advice

J. S. JONES, secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, in a recent communication that was published generally throughout the state gave some important advice to those residing in agricultural communities when he advised them to take no uncertain interest in the township meetings to be held March 10, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer.

He points out that the individual farmer feels that he can do little to keep down county taxes and still less to reduce state levies but points out that he can do a great deal to reduce expenditures in his own home community.

After all when one's tax bill is analyzed the large amounts are those levied for home expenses. No more certain way can be devised to reduce the tax burden than to cut down expenditures in the township, school district and county.

This, it is true, will not equalize the unfair burden borne by agricultural lands but it will lighten the load until such time as some form of legislation can be worked out to bring about this desirable result.

In the meantime tax measures can be studied, united support for beneficial measures can be secured through the Farm Bureau and similar organizations and eventually some system will be evolved that will bring about the relief that is just and equitable.

Attend your township meeting March 10 and use your influence to hold down your local rate. Your example will be followed by county and state officials.

Advertising Aids Business

ADVERTISING as carried on in newspapers is a direct aid to business.

Varied copy giving store news and assisting the housewife in her selection of goods and prices is a stimulant to any business. A large part of the home shopping is done at the fireside. The average family discusses various purchases before the store is visited.

Radios, washing machines, refrigerators, cars, etc., are referred to because they have descriptions and pictures in the newspapers. The family becomes familiar with the product before it is seen at the merchant's store.

Grocery and meat market shopping becomes a fine art when one may scan the advertising columns of the newspaper and arrange the budget.

Strangers are moving to town, people who may never have heard of your store. Tourists will soon be here. So will summer residents at the lakes.

No Rain

THE Emporia, Kansas, Gazette remarks that it rained less than a fifth of an inch in their town yesterday and there has in the last five months been scarcely enough rain in their part of Kansas and generally speaking in their part of the world, to furnish the household needs for water.

It just can't rain. Since the November flood of 1929 something has happened to the rain machine. The little angels probably got to teetering on it and broke a spring or something. Maybe they bent the thunder clapper or broke the zig-zags off the lightning. Anyway, it just can't rain.

By way of retribution and to square himself with the world, the boss angel in charge of that part of the heavenly water works should catch those little angels and pluck them clean as geese, throwing their feathers down on earth to make it snow.

That would help.

Safety Instruction

SAFETY instruction should be a regular part of the curriculum of every grade school in the state of Minnesota, according to Col. Frank Matson, state railroad and warehouse commissioner and president of the Minnesota Safety Council.

"Figures from 26 towns and cities in the state," said Col. Matson, "show that an estimate of 14 grade school children were killed and 1,794 injured in all kinds of accidents during the month of last January alone."

Mr. Matson believes many of these accidents could have been averted. He has urged the forming of safety communities in larger measure throughout the state and that civic clubs and public councils should be active in service.

State Rural Credits Bureau

THE state of Minnesota on December 31 of last year owned 2,178 farms repossessed by the State Rural Credits Bureau to satisfy defaulted loans of a total of $13,325,488.

A total of 648 new loans, averaging $4,822 apiece, was made last year. Ole O. Sageng, chairman of the bureau, explains that the large growth in repossessions is due to excessive crop failures, increasing taxes, loans of too large a calibre and the general agricultural depression.

The state at the close of last year had outstanding on that date 12,257 farm loans of a value of $57,751,100.

BILLY NOONAN, who gets time to figure out statistics, says in the Region of Baudette that the average wife washes three acros of dishes a year, prepares 3,000 meals and sweeps 160 acres of floor. The leisure time between these tasks is filled with cooking, sewing, house-cleaning and listening to her husband complain of overwork.

THE cry of "nepotism" first raised in the Minnesota legislature now re-echoes in the House of Congress. Clerks in Congress are massing behind the bill of U. S. Stone of Oklahoma, which forbids senators and representatives to appoint relatives to positions in their offices.

AN immediate nation-wide investigation of milk prices will be conducted by the Justice Department of the Federal government, it has been announced. Congress, in general, has kept an eye on the price of bread and other food products.

THE Minnesota legislature is faced with the task of raising $5,000,000 in a painless manner and without disturbing business and other existing relations.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Recently I've had the enlightening experience of listening in on the conversations of those who have just heard of engagements or marriages.

Who is he? What does he do? How much has he got? Where are they going to live?

If the boy has money there is a smile on the faces of all the Tigers. If he hasn't, they want to know what on earth she sees in him. This includes not only the friends and acquaintances, but the girl's family as well.

If he belongs to a rich family they want to know what his chances are of getting his hands on some of the lucre.

If it's the boy's friend they want to know who this girl is, has she money; have her folks money, are they in right socially? Is she pretty—what counts, too?

"She wears glasses and she isn't anything much for style, but she has a sweet smile, and her folks are rich."

General licking of chops at that sound—rich.

"She's beautiful but dumb. He's very rich."

Well, that's all right, because with her looks and his money the couple certainly should be able to step a little and enrich the scenery.

One of the dumbest, meanest wives I ever knew was so beautiful that you had to wonder why the lord in his mercy didn't make more like her for us to enjoy seeing. She got married in her usual simpering manner. I suppose the male thought he had something to show about the country—brown eyes, fair skin, rich golden hair, a Venus figure.

But Oh boy! When that girl was thoroughly, completely, safely and undoubtedly married, it was so different. Was she mad when the first baby came and threatened to ruin her figure! Did she howl when her husband lost money on the market and she couldn't go to Europe! (She'd been there once that year and made Whoopee enough to last three years.) Did she send her child off to school and forget her and let mean help boss her around and ruin her disposition! And she had clothes, and I mean clothes, no matter what they did to his bank account. Anything that made her look prettier she bought, and he could worry about how it would get paid for. That's why she married him. She wasn't going to develop a wrinkle over the bills.

And one day, a girl with glasses came along. Pretty too, and sweet and gentle a lady. Consideration for everybody, loved children, taught school in fact, and had for several years. She knew just how to make children love her. The man hired her for governness, and fell in love with her. And then how that woman he married showed up! The contrast was one of life's high lights.

One day she got so mad—what with no trips to Europe that year and a cut in expenses—that she ran away with one of her husband's very, very rich friends. Did he care? He didn't even pretend he cared—He's married to the governess now and she could wear four pairs of glasses and do her hair in a knot if she wanted to, and he'd still think she was an angel straight off a cloud.

I hear the new husband is wishing she was back home, but she's living in Paris and he's tied to her, and all he can do about it is meditate.

In the recent crash the new husband lost his all, and what he is going to do with the beauty is his worry. The governess and her husband have a new yacht and they are going bye-bye soon to the tune of the million he made in two short years.

Ain't life just too wonderful?

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

March 4, 1906

A large amount of snow fell during the night, and all night it blew a terrific gale, making it almost impassable for pedestrians. Considerable delay was caused in railroad traffic throughout the northwest. The temperature was some warmer this morning.

Rev. O. F. Johnson, pastor of the Norwegian-Lutheran church has tendered his resignation and expects to leave for Cando, N. D., about June 1. He has been in Brainerd for about a year.

Arthur Hagberg returned from a business trip north today.

The four Cross Lake blindpiggers had their hearing this morning before Judge J. H. Warner. County Attorney A. D. Polk appeared as prosecutor. They were bound over to the grand jury, and appear at the next term of court.

No. 11 came in from the east this afternoon with a double header. The storm between here and the head of the lakes seemed to be worse than anywhere in the northwest.

State Game Warden Sam F. Fullerton arrived in the city this afternoon from the Twin Cities.

The funeral services over the remains of the late William Frank Murray were held this morning at 10 o'clock from his home. There was an unusually large turnout. The Machinist union, the Odd Fellows, A. O. U. W. and Masons turned out in a body. The machinists at the shops did not work this morning.

Supt. Strachn of the M. & I. returned today from a business trip to the Twin Cities.

State Rural Credits Bureau

THE state of Minnesota on December 31 of last year owned 2,178 farms repossessed by the State Rural Credits Bureau to satisfy defaulted loans of a total of $13,325,488.

A total of 648 new loans, averaging $4,822 apiece, was made last year. Ole O. Sageng, chairman of the bureau, explains that the large growth in repossessions is due to excessive crop failures, increasing taxes, loans of too large a calibre and the general agricultural depression.

The state at the close of last year had outstanding on that date 12,257 farm loans of a value of $57,751,100.

BILLY NOONAN, who gets time to figure out statistics, says in the Region of Baudette that the average wife washes three acros of dishes a year, prepares 3,000 meals and sweeps 160 acres of floor. The leisure time between these tasks is filled with cooking, sewing, house-cleaning and listening to her husband complain of overwork.

THE cry of "nepotism" first raised in the Minnesota legislature now re-echoes in the House of Congress. Clerks in Congress are massing behind the bill of U. S. Stone of Oklahoma, which forbids senators and representatives to appoint relatives to positions in their offices.

AN immediate nation-wide investigation of milk prices will be conducted by the Justice Department of the Federal government, it has been announced. Congress, in general, has kept an eye on the price of bread and other food products.

THE Minnesota legislature is faced with the task of raising $5,000,000 in a painless manner and without disturbing business and other existing relations.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Recently I've had the enlightening experience of listening in on the conversations of those who have just heard of engagements or marriages.

Who is he? What does he do? How much has he got? Where are they going to live?

If the boy has money there is a smile on the faces of all the Tigers. If he hasn't, they want to know what on earth she sees in him. This includes not only the friends and acquaintances, but the girl herself as well.

If he belongs to a rich family they want to know what his chances are of getting his hands on some of the lucre.

If it's the boy's friend they want to know who this girl is, has she money; have her folks money, are they in right socially? Is she pretty—what counts, too?

"She wears glasses and she isn't anything much for style, but she has a sweet smile, and her folks are rich."

General licking of chops at that sound—rich.

"She's beautiful but dumb. He's very rich."

Well, that's all right, because with her looks and his money the couple certainly should be able to step a little and enrich the scenery.

One of the dumbest, meanest wives I ever knew was so beautiful that you had to wonder why the lord in his mercy didn't make more like her for us to enjoy seeing. She got married in her usual simpering manner. I suppose the male thought he had something to show about the country—brown eyes, fair skin, rich golden hair, a Venus figure.

But Oh boy! When that girl was thoroughly, completely, safely and undoubtedly married, it was so different. Was she mad when the first baby came and threatened to ruin her figure! Did she howl when her husband lost money on the market and she couldn't go to Europe! (She'd been there once that year and made Whoopee enough to last three years.) Did she send her child off to school and forget her and let mean help boss her around and ruin her disposition! And she had clothes, and I mean clothes, no matter what they did to his bank account. Anything that made her look prettier she bought, and he could worry about how it would get paid for. That's why she married him. She wasn't going to develop a wrinkle over the bills.

And one day, a girl with glasses came along. Pretty too, and sweet and gentle a lady. Consideration for everybody, loved children, taught school in fact, and had for several years. She knew just how to make children love her. The man hired her for governness, and fell in love with her. And then how that woman he married showed up! The contrast was one of life's high lights.

One day she got so mad—what with no trips to Europe that year and a cut in expenses—that she ran away with one of her husband's very, very rich friends. Did he care? He didn't even pretend he cared—He's married to the governness now and she could wear four pairs of glasses and do her hair in a knot if she wanted to, and he'd still think she was an angel straight off a cloud.

I hear the new husband is wishing she was back home, but she's living in Paris and he's tied to her, and all he can do about it is meditate.

In the recent crash the new husband lost his all, and what he is going to do with the beauty is his worry. The governness and her husband have a new yacht and they are gonig bye-bye soon to the tune of the million he made in two short years.

Ain't life just too wonderful?

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

March 4, 1906

A large amount of snow fell during the night, and all night it blew a terrific gale, making it almost impassable for pedestrians. Considerable delay was caused in railroad traffic throughout the northwest. The temperature was some warmer this morning.

Rev. O. F. Johnson, pastor of the Norwegian-Lutheran church has tendered his resignation and expects to leave for Cando, N. D., about June 1. He has been in Brainerd for about a year.

Arthur Hagberg returned from a business trip north today.

The four Cross Lake blindpiggers had their hearing this morning before Judge J. H. Warner. County Attorney A. D. Polk appeared as prosecutor. They were bound over to the grand jury, and appear at the next term of court.

No. 11 came in from the east this afternoon with a double header. The storm between here and the head of the lakes seemed to be worse than anywhere in the northwest.

State Game Warden Sam F. Fullerton arrived in the city this afternoon from the Twin Cities.

The funeral services over the remains of the late William Frank Murray were held this morning at 10 o'clock from his home. There was an unusually large turnout. The Machinist union, the Odd Fellows, A. O. U. W. and Masons turned out in a body. The machinists at the shops did not work this morning.

Supt. Strachn of the M. & I. returned today from a business trip to the Twin Cities.

Washington P. T. A. Goes on Record for Legislation; Dr. Beise Gives Health Talk

The March meeting of the Washington P. T. A. at the high school last evening was one of unusual interest and sociability, with a varied program and a spirit of camaraderie that was delightful. The meeting opened with community singing led by Rolland Jenkins, a business meeting in which the finances of the association and the needs for the convention in the fall were discussed briefly, and then a program that held the interest of the audience.

Dr. R. A. Beise as the speaker of the day discussed various phases of the health program; and in witty fashion contrasted the youth of this day and of a generation past, stated that the evils that the world worries about have a way of solving themselves with the passage of the years, and that as the evil of wasp waists and other peculiar ideas of our forefathers had ceased to be, so some of the problems that we face will in another quarter century be supplanted by others. He discussed the questions of vaccination, stating that serum treatment had been experimented with until today the medical profession is sure of its ground. He contrasted the attitude of Europe and the east with that of the west on smoking. He stated that the modern problems of youth were due, primarily to three causes — the automobile, which removed most social activities from the home, the undue publicity given all sorts of crime and the fact that criminals were played up as the hero of the hour, and the lack of parental control. His keynote, throughout, was optimism.

Dr. C. E. Anderson, with Lorraine Morrison at the piano, sang with expression and excellent interpretation "Rolling Down to Rio" and "By the Waters of Minnetonka."

Mrs. J. H. Herbert, who is too well known to make any introduction necessary, was in fine form and kept her audience alternating between tears and laughter as she made many witty remarks on local subjects and people, and then spoke very seriously in a plea for the protection of the modern youth, and urged that they get all possible help in the solving of the difficult problems that they face.

The meeting went on record as approving the proposed legislation for the teachers retirement fund and for the construction of a psycopathic hospital at the University of Minnesota.

A social hour with refreshments served by the domestic science department under the supervision of Miss Fill ended a very pleasant meeting.

WOODROW

There has been flu in the Bisson, Dullum and Henry Britton families recently.

A number of the dancing set attended the dance at Slim's Saturday night.

A surprise party was given at Ed Norgard's Saturday night. Wm. Zodrow furnished the music.

Mrs. Ernest Bisson was taken to St. Joseph's hospital last week.

Many school children are out of school ill with the flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond King were calling at J. P. Dullum's and Dalbert Dingman's recently.

The Dingman family has been ill with the flu.

Some of Woodrow callers recently were Joe Herbst, Melvin Pederson, Harold Whitten, Henry Britton and Mrs. Thad Cooley.

Oscar Pederson is having a hard time with rheumatism.

Pupils of the Riverton high school held a declamatory contest Friday. Miss Bernice McMasters won grand honors.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keller of Sauk Rapids motored up recently to visit the Dullum's. Mrs. Keller is Mrs. Dullum's sister.

School District No. 15

A spelling contest was held at the school house of district No. 15 Thursday afternoon, February 26. Ten pupils from district No. 68 and ten pupils from our school entered the contest. The first test was given to the 8th grade pupils. Marjorie Gordon won first place in this test. A second test was given the 5th and 6th grade pupils. Alice Kyllingstad won first place. A third test was given in the form of an old fashioned "spell down." Vernon Wolhart spelled down the rest of the pupils from both schools. The contest was followed by a delicious lunch, served by the Mothers club.

Work has begun on a two and a half hour play "Two Days to Marry" which will be given March 21 by the young people from this and adjoining districts.

The 7th graders made individual product maps of the middle Atlantic states last Wednesday.

The average attendance for Feb. was 26.15. There are 28 pupils enrolled. The following people had perfect attendance: Margaret Anderson, Edward Anderson, Jane Clawson, Kathryn Clawson, Bernice Dickson, Elmer Eschenbacher, Mabel Jones, Bryce Kyllingstad, Alice Kyllingstad, Donald Kyllingstad, Mildred Peterson, Everett Petersen, Harold Thienes, Bernice Wheeler and Alvin Nelson.

Winners of reading prizes this week were: Margaret Stedtfeld, first grade; Willie Wheeler, second grade and Bernice Dickson, third grade.

The following won prizes in the "Health Crusade": Geraldine Petersen, Glenna Jones and Everett Petersen.

Mis Violet Greene is teacher.

The pupils had a Valentine party on Friday afternoon, February 13. A program, Valentine box and lunch were enjoyed by all.

BLEND ALONE WILL NOT INSURE PERFECT FLAVOR IN COFFEE

If the Blended Coffees Are Not Roasted Evenly, Flavor Varies

In the origination and perfection of Controlled Roasting, Hills Bros. accomplished something that no other coffee roaster has yet achieved. By this patented process, the degree of roast is positively controlled. The result is that Hills Bros. Coffee is absolutely uniform.

The reason for the success of Controlled Roasting is that this process roasts a few pounds at a time instead of in bulk. By a continuous process these small amounts of coffee flow through the roasters in a steady stream, roasting a little at a time. Automatic control of both the flow and the heat absolutely prevents variation in the roast.

Bold as the claim may seem, no other coffee has the flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee. Wherever Hills Bros. Coffee is introduced it quickly becomes the preferred brand.

Hills Bros. Coffee never "goes stale," because it is packed in vacuum. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken from the can and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade mark—on the can. Sold by grocers everywhere.

BLEND ALONE WILL NOT INSURE PERFECT FLAVOR IN COFFEE

If the Blended Coffees Are Not Roasted Evenly, Flavor Varies

In the origination and perfection of Controlled Roasting, Hills Bros. accomplished something that no other coffee roaster has yet achieved. By this patented process, the degree of roast is positively controlled. The result is that Hills Bros. Coffee is absolutely uniform.

The reason for the success of Controlled Roasting is that this process roasts a few pounds at a time instead of in bulk. By a continuous process these small amounts of coffee flow through the roasters in a steady stream, roasting a little at a time. Automatic control of both the flow and the heat absolutely prevents variation in the roast.

Bold as the claim may seem, no other coffee has the flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee. Wherever Hills Bros. Coffee is introduced it quickly becomes the preferred brand.

Hills Bros. Coffee never "goes stale," because it is packed in vacuum. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken from the can and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade mark—on the can. Sold by grocers everywhere.

"I've circled the globe with the Fleet —says Chesterfield

©1931, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Yet you'll find me at the crossroads store"

When Jack's ashore he's liable to be going several places at once! But there's one thing Navy men can get together on—whether in Hong Kong, Seattle, or Newtown Center: Taste is what they want in their cigarettes—the taste that comes from milder and better tobaccos, and from nothing else! They know their cigarettes, these men of the fleet. That's why Chesterfield is the Navy's choice!

They Satisfy —that's Why!

For NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

NEWMAN TOSSES IN 13 OUT OF POSSIBLE 14

BOTH TEAMS SCORE EQUALLY ON BASKETS, GET 10 EACH

BRAINERD HANDICAPPED BY SMALL FLOOR AND CROWD LAST EVENING

Brainerd high school was defeated 38 to 26 by Little Falls last night in a fast game which caused Little Falls first string men to exert themselves to the utmost to cope with the squad Brainerd presented. The teams scored 10 baskets each and the victory came to Little Falls because one man, Newman, made the phenomenal record of sinking 13 free throws out of a possible 14. Newman is a fast player and it is remarkable he could steady himself sufficiently to make all the charity circle shots.

Brainerd was handicapped by the small floor and both teams often shot players into the ranks of the spectators who crowded the sidelines. Collision of players was a frequent occurrence, plus hitting the wall at the backboard.

Templeton scored the first point for Brainerd. He was fouled by Zerwas and made his free throw. Immediately after Franks fouled Newman and Newman started his long string of free throws. Larson made a basket and then fouled Riddle who missed his throw. Franks fouled Newman and the latter made his two shots. Franks on a triple pass play hit the basket. As time out was taken Brainerd led 5 to 3. Templeton fouled LoFond who made one free throw and missed the other. Franks missed his free throw. With another foul called on Little Falls Franks made one throw and missed the other. Newman made his two free throws. Zerwas made a free throw. Patterson replaced Franks. Patterson missed his free throw. Larson followed with a basket and Little Falls also tipped one in, the score at the first quarter being Brainerd 8, Little Falls 9. This was the closest margin between the teams, for thereafter Little Falls vaulted ahead.

No matter how hard Brainerd strived, the team could not get in the lead.

White made a long shot, a pretty play for the basket, at the opening of the third quarter.

EARL BRIDGES WINS THE PAS DOG DERBY

The Pas, Man., March 4.—(U.P.)—Earl Bridges, youthful Canadian musher, won the gruelling 200-mile The Pas dog derby today, finishing the race with two of his exhausted dogs riding on his sleigh.

Bridges defeated four of Canada's premier dog drivers, including Emil St. Goddard. It was the second consecutive year that he has won The Pas derby, but Goddard defeated him in three earlier races this year and still holds the title of Canadian champion.

The Pas derby was run over 100 miles of open trail to Flin Flon mine and return. The course is made one of the world's most difficult by forests, hills, muskeg swamps and lakes.

GRIFFITHS AND LEVINSKY COMPLETE THEIR TRAINING

Chicago, March 4.—(U.P.)—Tuffy Griffiths and King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweights, were to complete hard training today for their 10-round bout in the Chicago stadium Friday night. Griffiths continued to rule a favorite at varying odds of 2-1 and 7-5.

Lou Scozza, Buffalo light-heavyweight, was made a favorite to defeat Battling Bozo, who holds a draw and a decision over Maxey Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion, in their 8-round semi-final.

MILE, 2 MILE, POLE VAULT AND 35 LB. WEIGHT

TRACK AND FIELD GAMES AT NEW YORK CITY SATURDAY NIGHT

PENNSYLVANIA A HEAVY FAVORITE TO WIN THE TEAM TITLE

By HENRY McLEMORE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, March 4.—No less than four records are expected to go by the boards when the east's outstanding college athletes finish their running, jumping and throwing in the intercollegiate A. A. A. track and field games here Saturday night.

The four marks expected to be toppled are the mile, two-mile, pole vault and 35-pound weight throw.

Carl Coan, slender University of Pennsylvania youngster, is almost certain to smash Jimmy Connolly's mark of 4:17:8 for the mile.

Joe McCluskey, Fordham's long-winded Sophomore distance man, is the boy expected to put the skids under the two-mile mark of 9:22 established in 1929 by Paul Rekers of Penn. In five starts this season the Fordham boy has been clocked in 9:20:8, 9:19:8; 9:12, 9:12 and 9:13:8.

Experts freely predict that Everett Colyer of Cornell will have little trouble in raising the pole vault "ceiling" above the 13 feet 7½ inches mark set by Fred Sturdy of Yale. Colyer often has done better than 13 7½ and should have little trouble doing so again under normal conditions.

The fourth record will start trembling when Fred Steiner, Penn giant, starts tossing the 35-pound weight about. This strapping young man surpassed Norwood Wright's mark of 53 feet 11 1-8 inches on several occasions.

Pennsylvania is a heavy favorite to capture the team title.

Cornell, defending champion, is conceded little chance to retain its title against Penn's well-balanced squad.

Al Capone Gains Delay in Trial on Vagrancy Charges

Chicago, March 4.—(U.P.)—In a courtroom full of talking picture cameras, "Scarface Al" Capone gained a delay today in his scheduled trial on vagrancy charges.

The case was put over to March 28 by Judge Frank M. Padden in order that the state might amend its complaint, which calls the millionaire Capone "a vagrant."

Capone, who was sentenced last week to six months in jail on a contempt charge, did not trouble to remove his overcoat, as he anticipated the continuance.

Evangelist's Daughter Marries Ship Purser

Singapore, March 4.—(U.P.)—Roberta Semple McPherson, 20, daughter of the American evangelist, Aimee Semple McPherson, was married at the Wesley church here today to William Bradley Smyth, 23, purser of the liner President Wilson on which Mrs. McPherson and her daughter are making a world tour.

"It is a pure love match—I give it my blessing," Aimee McPherson said. The couple met at San Francisco when the McPhersons started their tour.

FUNERAL RITES FOR REP. HENRY A. COOPER

Washington, March 4.—(U.P.)—Services for the late Rep. Henry Allen Cooper of Wisconsin, dean of the house of representatives, were held today at a general parlor near the capitol where he served for 36 years.

The brief ceremony was conducted by Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the house, as congress was closing its bitter short session nearby.

The train bearing the late member's body to his home at Racine, was to leave here at 3:25 p. m. eastern time, due to arrive at Racine at noon tomorrow. Members of the Wisconsin delegation and members of the house foreign affairs committee on which Cooper served, will accompany the body as an honorary escort.

Weighted Silk Material

Silks are weighted by the addition of solutions of tin or iron salts. They make the silk seem heavier, with more body. However, they decrease the wearing quality of the silk.

State Senate Removes Holmberg from Position by a Vote of 48 to 19

St. Paul, March 4.—(UP)—The state senate today removed N. J. Holmberg from his position of state agricultural commissioner by a vote of 48 to 19.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson had requested the senate to refuse confirmation of Holmberg, who was appointed by Governor Theodore Christianson on his last day in office.

The senate agricultural committee had voted to refuse to confirm the nomination.

Governor Olson recently made a number of charges against Holmberg, including an allegation that the commissioner was building up a political machine and intended to be a candidate for governor in 1932.

FORMER JUDGES TO ACT AT ELECTION

Voting Precincts for April 7 Election Set; Mrs. E. T. Fleener to Purchase Supplies

The Third Ward Community House also known as "Elvig's Hall" will be the class of the voting precincts at the city election, April 7.

The community building constructed on the site of the old Northeast hose house received the nomer "Elvig's Hall" because of the persistency of Alderman Chris Elvig in working for the new community center.

Other voting precincts will be the same as before and all judges of the election of the last general election have been authorized by the city council to act at the spring election.

Mrs. E. T. Fleener, city clerk, has received authority to prepare the necessary notices for the election and to purchase the necessary forms and supplies according to the terms of the city charter.

The polling places in the several voting precincts will be as follows:

First Ward—City Hall.

2nd Ward, 1st Prec.—409 Main St.

2nd Ward, 2nd Prec.—Public Library

3rd Ward, 1st Prec.—3rd Ward Community House.

3rd Ward, 2nd Prec.—Lowell school.

Fourth Ward—4th Ward Hose House

Fifth Ward—Washington high.

Wonderful Winter in North Dakota

In a letter today, Mrs. E. D. Robinson, Cyr, N. D., states they have had a wonderful winter, with not much snow, and with crows and gophers much in evidence. The farmers at Cyr will be in the fields this month. Mr. Robinson is employed as janitor for the school there, this being his third year. She also writes that Harold C. Canfield, formerly of Brainerd, has been transferred by the Wisconsin Electric Company from Antigo to Wausau, Wis., and is now located there with his family.

REVOLT IN PERU QUIETING DOWN

Lima, Peru, March 4.—(UP)—Settlement of revolutionary movement in Peru was indicated today at the presidential palace where it was said the provisional government's peace delegation to Arequipa would return by airplane.

Meanwhile, another plane carrying Col. Roberto Lopez and Col. Jorge Vargas was ordered northward to confer with army leaders.

It was understood that Lt. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, whose military government resigned to make way for the present provisional regime, would sail for Europe Saturday.

CONDEMNED MAN HAS BUT A YEAR TO LIVE

Doylestown, Pa., March 4.—(UP)—Charles Haney, declared by doctors to have only a year to live because of his physical condition, will be sentenced to death in the electric chair.

He was found guilty today by a jury on the charge of slaying his wife, Mary. No recommendation of mercy was returned, making the death sentence mandatory.

His present physical condition was the result of an attempt to kill himself after he had killed his wife last October after a drinking bout.

Pequot to Cross Lake Mail Service Approved

The post office department has approved the extension of Star Route No. 41,238, Pequot to Cross Lake, so as to provide box delivery and collection service to the summer residents of Manhattan Beach during the period from June 1 to September 30 of each year, according to an announcement received today by the Dispatch from Congressman Harold Knutson.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, vibrant and beautiful, becomes cynical toward love when she gives up Mat Tully at her mother's request because he is poor. She encourages the attentions of Jack Peamer, wealthy married man, who, enamored of Nancy, wishes to divorce his wife. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with a handsome ranger, Roger Decatur. Leaving her chaperones, the rich Porters, Nancy, after a violent but brief courtship, secretly marries Roger. Her folks at home wonder at her continued absence. In Reno on their honeymoon, Roger pleads with Nancy to write her mother of their marriage.

CHAPTER XX.

ROGER held her at arm's length. His whole face was shining. Every bit of him, from his crisp yellow hair to his polished brown boots, radiated good news.

He said, "Nancy, old girl, we're going back to the tall timbers. I'm all through here. We're going home."

* * *

Home was a ranger's cabin, perched precariously, Nancy thought, on the barren mountain side.

"But I thought. . . trees. . ." she began a little uncertainly, knowing that she was expected to like it and feeling lost for words.

"Oh, we're up above the timber line," Roger exulted. "Look! We're on top of the world. You can see all over the valley. There's Mt. Dana and there's Glacier and Nancy. . . the timber is in the way, but beyond the green lie the Meadows. . . our meadows, Nancy, where we found each other—see!"

Nancy followed his finger, but it all looked alike to her. One peak was as jagged and rocky as another. It was all too big and strange to be familiar and friendly.

Home

"I wish we were back in the Meadows," she said, wistfully.

"But this is my place, honey This—this is home!"

"Yes, and I'm going to love it!" she promised warmly, holding tight to his hand. "Oh, Roger, don't leave me . . . don't leave me alone in this lonely place!"

He was so proud of the interior, of his own crude but not inartistic attempts to make it homelike. He pointed out the book cases made of packing boxes, the barrel chair, the kitchen cupboard, the Navajo rugs. "I tell you there aren't many fellows who could bring a girl into a cabin without planning ahead of time!"

"I'll bet there aren't!" she marvelled, patting the pillows on the neat army cots, straightening a pile of old magazines. And inwardly she was wailing, "Oh, why doesn't he bring in the bags and show me where to wash? Oh, dear, he's so fresh and enthusiastic and I'm so tired and dirty!"

She took off her hat, the lovely brown hat that had been new a few short weeks ago and was dusty and out of shape already. In the bright afternoon light from the biggest window he saw with a guilty start that she was very pale and there were dark circles under her soft brown eyes.

"Why didn't you tell me you were tired?" he cried hotly, snatching her off her feet and depositing her tenderly in the barrel chair. "Lord, I'm so used to it I never stop to think how far it is . . . poor kid, you're all in!"

"I'm all right. I'm not the least bit tired," she lied happily, snuggling back against the pillows he piled behind her. Her heart melted. She looked at him with love and pride. Tall, bronzed Roger with the strong, gentle hands and the funny sunburned hair, lighter than his brown skin. While he went into the lean-to kitchen and started dinner she lay back on her pillows, eyes closed . . . happy . . . happy . . . Presently she smelled coffee and the pungent smoke of sizzling bacon. Lying there, half asleep, she almost thought she was home again, in her own room and Louise getting papa's breakfast in the kitchen downstairs.

* * *

Louise read Nancy's last letter again. Not a word about when she was coming home. Not a bit of news in it, either. What was the matter with the Porters, staying so long in Reno? And why was Nancy staying so long with them?

Mama couldn't understand it, either. Now that Aunt Ellie had gone home and she didn't have to make custards and junkets for her, she had twice as much time on her hands and twice as much opportunity to worry.

Surprising News

With the Summer drawing to a close any number of smart functions were under way and Nancy wasn't there. May Belle Craig was going to finish her Russian River season with a Venetian water carnival. Cora Craig dropped in to remind them of it and asked again for Nancy.

While her motor with the liveried Oscar waited outside, she drank three cups of mama's best jasmine tea, and her sharp eyes darted about the shabby room, resting now on the worn place in the carpet, now on the mahogany chair with the cracked rung, then back to mama's old brown silk dress with the patch under the arm that she hadn't had time to change.

Louise, pretending to be wrapt in her music at the piano at the other end of the room, heard and winced at every word of Mrs. Craig's fashionable gossip, knowing how mama was suffering because she couldn't boast about her girls.

Mabel . . . Gil Neal . . . the Sydney Taft's tea . . . Mabel's new cerise velvet evening coat. . . .

She ought to be shot, the old crow, rubbing it into mama that way, Louise thought, angrily, striking loud chords in the hope of drowning her out.

But above Lou's music, above mama's timid offer of more tea, Mrs. Craig's voice rose determinedly:

"By the way, I met that Porter woman who took Nancy to the High Sierras. She was at the Prescott's garden party yesterday, though why they invited the creature I don't understand. Common! My dear Kitty, she's the most ORDINARY—"

Louise fumbled, choked and looked appealingly at mama.

To Kitty Hollenbeck's everlasting credit it must be said that she took the blow bravely. She did not even wince. With her tormentor's sharp eyes upon her she swallowed hard and then she murmured, "So Louise said. But they're so devoted to Nancy. I'm surprised she has stayed as long as she has, but of course they've been traveling all the while and that does help to pass the time. . . Cora, a little more of the nut bread?"

Mrs. Craig waved it away with a glittering hand. "No thank you, dear, and I must be going. I have to stop at Madame Marie's for May Belle's new dance frock. My dear, the child has a closet full of chic things, but she MUST have the new one for tonight. These girls, when they're in love! Lucky for you that Louise is so sensible, Kitty. I always say to May Belle, 'If you'd only be more like Lou Hollenbeck, not always out with some BOY!—but there! They're only young once. . . I MUST go. . . and Kitty, if you feel equal to the Venetian carnival we'd love to have you, though of course it's REALLY for the babes. . . well, if you CAN'T come, send the girls anyway. Nancy will be back, won't she?"

"Yes, indeed. She wouldn't THINK of missing it," mama said firmly.

"And don't you dare fail us, Louise!"

"I won't!" Louise promised brightly, hurrying to open the door lest Mrs. Craig change her mind about going.

She was a long time coming back to the living room. What was keeping the girl? Mama waited anxiously, the strained "company smile" still on her face. To quiet her nerves she nibbled on a sandwich. She was brushing crumbs away when Louise, a little pale but otherwise quite as usual, came back.

The two women eyed each other almost hostilely.

"Well, there's no use worrying," Louise began with false cheerfulness.

"Worrying! I'm not worrying. I could trust my girls anywhere," mama cried angrily. "But that Porter woman, leaving three unchaperoned girls in Reno, rushing down here to try to get into society! Why did you let her go with them? You should have had more sense. You never think of me . . . nobody . . . my head . . ." The rest was lost in tears.

Very quietly Louise got the aspirin and mama's smelling salts. Then she went into the kitchen to start dinner. Her own head was aching, but what's a headache?

Mama nagged all through dinner.

"Um," papa agreed absently. And, "Tut, tut . . . too bad." But you could see that he wasn't listening. Nor did he eat, though they were having codfish cakes, of which he was ordinarily so fond.

"No dessert for me, Lou." He refused the cornstarch pudding too.

When mama paused to sip her coffee he said timidly, "I think my mother may visit us for a little while."

Not Welcome

Kitty Hollenbeck's nostrils dilated. "Your mother! Visit us? HERE?"

"Where else?" He took a cigar out of the row he always kept in his pocket and rarely smoked himself. He was trying so hard to be nonchalant.

His wife got up, pushing back her chair violently. "Well, I'm sure I don't know why she SHOULD come here, an old lady like that, coming to total strangers! Really, Peter . . . you . . . I . . it's so UNREASONABLE!"

"It isn't unreasonable," he said doggedly "My own mother. If she isn't welcome in my house, I don't know where—"

"I was only thinking of her. She won't be happy here, away from the cows and the chickens and p-pigs—" Mama wept openly then.

It was a relief when the doorbell rang. Louise dashed to answer it.

A boy with a long box of flowers. "For Miss Nancy Hollenbeck. Sign here, please."

With a queer feeling in the pit of her stomach Louise accepted his untidy bit of pencil and signed where the grubby forefinger pointed. Flowers . . . for Nancy. . . .

"Louise—I wish you'd shut that door. There's a draft, and my head aching, already—"

Louise came into the living room holding the box A hole had been cut in one end and a forest of stems stuck out. "They're for Nancy," she said stupidly.

TIRED WHEN SHE GOT UP

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I used to be as tired when I got up in the morning as when I went to bed. I had fainting spells and palpitation. Of course it was my age. I read a Lydia E. Pinkham booklet and started taking the Vegetable Compound three times a day. I am now a well woman. Three of my neighbors know what it did for me so they are taking it too. I will write to any woman if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her as it did me. I feel like a young woman now and I thank you."—Mrs. H. C. Henry, 286 Fuller Ave., St. Paul, Minnesota.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, vibrant and beautiful, becomes cynical toward love when she gives up Mat Tully at her mother's request because he is poor. She encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy married man, who, enamored of Nancy, wishes to divorce his wife. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with a handsome ranger, Roger Decatur. Leaving her chaperones, the rich Porters, Nancy, after a violent but brief courtship, secretly marries Roger. Her folks at home wonder at her continued absence. In Reno on their honeymoon*, Roger pleads with Nancy to write her mother of their marriage.*

CHAPTER XX.

ROGER held her at arm's length. His whole face was shining. Every bit of him, from his crisp yellow hair to his polished brown boots, radiated good news.

He said, "Nancy, old girl, we're going back to the tall timbers. I'm all through here. We're going home."

* * *

Home was a ranger's cabin, perched precariously, Nancy thought, on the barren mountain side.

"But I thought. . . trees. . ." she began a little uncertainly, knowing that she was expected to like it and feeling lost for words.

"Oh, we're up above the timber line," Roger exulted. "Look! We're on top of the world. You can see all over the valley. There's Mt. Dana and there's Glacier and Nancy. . . the timber is in the way, but beyond the green lie the Meadows. . . our meadows, Nancy, where we found each other—see!"

Nancy followed his finger, but it all looked alike to her. One peak was as jagged and rocky as another. It was all too big and strange to be familiar and friendly.

Home

"I wish we were back in the Meadows," she said, wistfully.

"But this is my place, honey This—this is home!"

"Yes, and I'm going to love it!" she promised warmly, holding tight to his hand. "Oh, Roger, don't leave me . . . don't leave me alone in this lonely place!"

He was so proud of the interior, of his own crude but not inartistic attempts to make it homelike. He pointed out the book cases made of packing boxes, the barrel chair, the kitchen cupboard, the Navajo rugs. "I tell you there aren't many fellows who could bring a girl into a cabin without planning ahead of time!"

"I'll bet there aren't!" she marvelled, patting the pillows on the neat army cots, straightening a pile of old magazines. And inwardly she was wailing, "Oh, why doesn't he bring in the bags and show me where to wash? Oh, dear, he's so fresh and enthusiastic and I'm so tired and dirty!"

She took off her hat, the lovely brown hat that had been new a few short weeks ago and was dusty and out of shape already. In the bright afternoon light from the biggest window he saw with a guilty start that she was very pale and there were dark circles under her soft brown eyes.

"Why didn't you tell me you were tired?" he cried hotly, snatching her off her feet and depositing her tenderly in the barrel chair. "Lord, I'm so used to it I never stop to think how far it is . . . poor kid, you're all in!"

"I'm all right. I'm not the least bit tired," she lied happily, snuggling back against the pillows he piled behind her. Her heart melted. She looked at him with love and pride. Tall, bronzed Roger with the strong, gentle hands and the funny sunburned hair, lighter than his brown skin. While he went into the lean-to kitchen and started dinner she lay back on her pillows, eyes closed . . . happy . . . happy . . . Presently she smelled coffee and the pungent smoke of sizzling bacon. Lying there, half asleep, she almost thought she was home again, in her own room and Louise getting papa's breakfast in the kitchen downstairs.

* * *

Louise read Nancy's last letter again. Not a word about when she was coming home. Not a bit of news in it, either. What was the matter with the Porters, staying so long in Reno? And why was Nancy staying so long with them?

Mama couldn't understand it, either. Now that Aunt Ellie had gone home and she didn't have to make custards and junkets for her, she had twice as much time on her hands and twice as much opportunity to worry.

Surprising News

With the Summer drawing to a close any number of smart functions were under way and Nancy wasn't there. May Belle Craig was going to finish her Russian River season with a Venetian water carnival. Cora Craig dropped in to remind them of it and asked again for Nancy.

While her motor with the liveried Oscar waited outside, she drank three cups of mama's best jasmine tea, and her sharp eyes darted about the shabby room, resting now on the worn place in the carpet, now on the mahogany chair with the cracked rung, then back to mama's old brown silk dress with the patch under the arm that she hadn't had time to change.

Louise, pretending to be wrapt in her music at the piano at the other end of the room, heard and winced at every word of Mrs. Craig's fashionable gossip, knowing how mama was suffering because she couldn't boast about her girls.

Mabel . . . Gil Neal . . . the Sydney Taft's tea . . . Mabel's new cerise velvet evening coat. . . .

She ought to be shot, the old crow, rubbing it into mama that way, Louise thought, angrily, striking loud chords in the hope of drowning her out.

But above Lou's music, above mama's timid offer of more tea, Mrs. Craig's voice rose determinedly:

"By the way, I met that Porter woman who took Nancy to the High Sierras. She was at the Prescott's garden party yesterday, though why they invited the creature I don't understand. Common! My dear Kitty, she's the most ORDINARY—"

Louise fumbled, choked and looked appealingly at mama.

To Kitty Hollenbeck's everlasting credit it must be said that she took the blow bravely. She did not even wince. With her tormentor's sharp eyes upon her she swallowed hard and then she murmured, "So Louise said. But they're so devoted to Nancy. I'm surprised she has stayed as long as she has, but of course they've been traveling all the while and that does help to pass the time. . . Cora, a little more of the nut bread?"

Mrs. Craig waved it away with a glittering hand. "No thank you, dear, and I must be going. I have to stop at Madame Marie's for May Belle's new dance frock. My dear, the child has a closet full of chic things, but she MUST have the new one for tonight. These girls, when they're in love! Lucky for you that Louise is so sensible, Kitty. I always say to May Belle, 'If you'd only be more like Lou Hollenbeck, not always out with some BOY!—but there! They're only young once. . . I MUST go. . . and Kitty, if you feel equal to the Venetian carnival we'd love to have you, though of course it's REALLY for the babes. . . well, if you CAN'T come, send the girls anyway. Nancy will be back, won't she?"

"Yes, indeed. She wouldn't THINK of missing it," mama said firmly.

"And don't you dare fail us, Louise!"

"I won't!" Louise promised brightly, hurrying to open the door lest Mrs. Craig change her mind about going.

She was a long time coming back to the living room. What was keeping the girl? Mama waited anxiously, the strained "company smile" still on her face. To quiet her nerves she nibbled on a sandwich. She was brushing crumbs away when Louise, a little pale but otherwise quite as usual, came back.

The two women eyed each other almost hostilely.

"Well, there's no use worrying," Louise began with false cheerfulness.

"Worrying! I'm not worrying. I could trust my girls anywhere," mama cried angrily. "But that Porter woman, leaving three unchaperoned girls in Reno, rushing down here to try to get into society! Why did you let her go with them? You should have had more sense. You never think of me . . . nobody . . . my head . . ." The rest was lost in tears.

Very quietly Louise got the aspirin and mama's smelling salts. Then she went into the kitchen to start dinner. Her own head was aching, but what's a headache?

Mama nagged all through dinner.

"Um," papa agreed absently. And, "Tut, tut . . . too bad." But you could see that he wasn't listening. Nor did he eat, though they were having codfish cakes, of which he was ordinarily so fond.

"No dessert for me, Lou." He refused the cornstarch pudding too.

When mama paused to sip her coffee he said timidly, "I think my mother may visit us for a little while."

Not Welcome

Kitty Hollenbeck's nostrils dilated. "Your mother! Visit us? HERE?"

"Where else?" He took a cigar out of the row he always kept in his pocket and rarely smoked himself. He was trying so hard to be nonchalant.

His wife got up, pushing back her chair violenty. "Well, I'm sure I don't know why she SHOULD come here, an old lady like that, coming to total strangers! Really, Peter . . . you . . . I . . it's so UNREASONABLE!"

"It isn't unreasonable," he said doggedly "My own mother. If she isn't welcome in my house, I don't know where—"

"I was only thinking of her. She won't be happy here, away from the cows and the chickens and p-pigs—" Mama wept openly then.

It was a relief when the doorbell rang. Louise dashed to answer it.

A boy with a long box of flowers. "For Miss Nancy Hollenbeck. Sign here, please."

With a queer feeling in the pit of her stomach Louise accepted his untidy bit of pencil and signed where the grubby forefinger pointed. Flowers . . . for Nancy. . . .

"Louise—I wish you'd shut that door. There's a draft, and my head aching, already—"

Louise came into the living room holding the box A hole had been cut in one end and a forest of stems stuck out. "They're for Nancy," she said stupidly.

ACTS TWO WAYS AT ONCE

Eat Everything without Fear of Indigestion

Are there lots of foods you can't eat—for fear of gas, bloating, pains in the stomach and bowels?

Do you have to pass up favorite dishes—while the rest enjoy them?

That's a sign you need Tanlac! For more than ten years Tanlac has restored to vigorous health thousands who denied themselves their favorite foods just as you have to.

Mrs. Arvena Bowers, of 1230 Jackson St., Topeka, Kans., says: "Five years I was troubled with gas, bloating and dizzy spells. But Tanlac toned up my whole system and increased my weight 10 lbs."

If you suffer from indigestion, gas, dizziness, headaches, constipation or torpid liver—give Tanlac a chance to help you! The first bottle often brings the needed relief.

Tanlac is a good, pure medicine, made of roots, barks, and herbs that are recognized by the United States Pharmacopoeia. Get it from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

FIRED WHEN SHE GOT UP

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I used to be as tired when I got up in the morning as when I went to bed. I had fainting spells and palpitation. Of course it was my age. I read a Lydia E. Pinkham booklet and started taking the Vegetable Compound three times a day. I am now a well woman. Three of my neighbors know what it did for me so they are taking it too. I will write to any woman if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her as it did me. I feel like a young woman now and I thank you."—Mrs. H. C. Henry, 286 Fuller Ave., St. Paul, Minnesota.
